

Dear Potential Sponsors,

On behalf of the Joint Committee on Rural Emergency Care (JCREC) and our partners, we invite you to join us and sponsor the sixth annual National Rural EMS & Care Conference. The JCREC is a collaborative of national organizations, including the National Association of State EMS Officials (NASEMSO), the National Organization of State Offices of Rural Health (NOSORH), and other partners. Together we are dedicated to building collaboration to improve rural emergency care and systems.

This conference is a unique convening of rural EMS directors, medical directors and officers, rural health care providers, state EMS officials, state rural health officials, hospital administrators, elected officials, federal agency officials, and State Offices of Rural Health. Individually, what we do to advance, protect, and enhance emergency care in rural America is pretty amazing, but collectively we can make an even bigger impact. Your support of this effort is crucial to our success.

We view our sponsors as vital partners with expertise and resources that go beyond the days of the conference. We are expecting over 100 attendees at this year's meeting. There will be excellent content from national experts and time built in for virtual networking. We hope to see you there.

Sponsorship of the 2021 National Rural EMS & Care Conference is $1000. For that support you will receive the following:

- Your logo on the virtual conference platform and app.
- A dedicated virtual booth to meet with attendees and other partners.
- A dedicated page on the conference platform and app.
- An article in the NOSORH Branch newsletter.

If you are interested in becoming a sponsor of the 2021 National Rural EMS & Care Conference, please contact Matt Strycker at stryckerm@nosorh.org by April 15th. For more information about the conference, go to the NOSORH website by clicking here.
